Welcome to FLOW

Thank you for joining us to welcome the New Year with creativity, imagination, and play. Our 2025 theme, Flow, honors the cycles of nature and the currents of time. Noon Year's Eve at the Crocker is a space for multivocal, multigenerational, circular learning and creative expression. As we move into 2026 together, we acknowledge the invisible thread that connects our past to our present, our families to our communities, and our individual spark of creativity to a larger, collective pulse.

Throughout the day, you are invited to wander through immersive environments alive with sound, movement, puppetry, costume, and hands-on art making. At noon, we take the collective step into the New Year by witnessing a ceremonial ball drop.

We are delighted to showcase extraordinary collaborators, from sound artists and sculptors to dancers, puppeteers, improvisers, and educators, each contributing their unique voice to this vibrant celebration within our storied art collection. We're so glad you're here.

Warmly,
Rachel Castro

Families are invited to get creative with clay, inspired by the playful worlds of television and film. After viewing a selection of imaginative clips, children and caregivers will sculpt their own small characters, props, or settings. Drawing from colorful sets, puppetry, animation, and fantastical storytelling, participants will explore how moving-image art can spark creativity and personal expression.
